Honeymooners jailed for having sex on the beach

— in a real-life 'From Here to Eternity' shocker!

NEWLYWEDS Eugene and Sandra Rensburg

By SALLY CARRUTHERS
Special correspondent

Honeymooners Sandra and Eugene Rensburg spent their wedding night in a dingy prison cell — after they got swept away by passion on a public beach and cops spotted them making whoopee in broad daylight.

The two lovebirds were arrested and charged with public indecency and hustled off to the city jail in Sprightstown, Barbados.

According to press accounts, they face up to a year in jail if convicted.

"It was a real-life version of the famous love scene in From Here to Eternity," said police inspector Basil Thomas.

"They were wet and covered in sand and they were totally into what they were doing.

"It was broad daylight, but even that might have been all right if they had chosen a secluded place.

"Unfortunately, they were right out there on a public beach with at least two dozen beachgoers nearby. I can't imagine what got into them."

The 24-year-old groom and his 19-year-old bride have hired an attorney and are pleading not guilty. They say when they started to cuddle on the beach there was no one around and they had no idea that a crowd had gathered, and that a police photographer was secretly taking their picture.

Incredible, the Bismarck, N.D., couple blamed their strict upbringing and high morals for their embarrassing behavior.

"My clients were both virgins before their marriage and they say their sexual restraint was so great for so many years that when they at last were free to make love they couldn't control themselves," explained Anthony Freeman, the newlyweds' lawyer.

"They told me they remember lying down next to each other in the warm sand and starting to cuddle and hug. After that they just let themselves be carried away by passion."

Freeman says he believes his clients will be able to make an arrangement with Barbados authorities to pay a fine rather than serve a jail sentence.

The couple's trial is scheduled to begin in two weeks and they have been released on their own recognizance.

"The vet had warned us that she might have a big litter soon, but 16 all at once — I just couldn't believe it," the flabbergasted lady told reporters.

"I figured eight or nine, maybe. I'd never heard of any dog having 16 puppies before."

Karen's grand adventure began one day when she awoke from a snooze on the couch and was plunged into the role of midwife for her pooped pooch.

"Suddenly, I heard this sound — 'meep, meep' — and saw K.C.'s furriest squirming on the living room floor," she recalled. "I jumped up, grabbed the paper and ran to get my husband and kids, but I must have scared K.C. because when we got back she was gone.

"We went looking for her and found her in the kitchen, popping puppies like there was no tomorrow. She had the first five in just 14 minutes."

The Goldbergs — Karen, hubby Norman, son Jake and daughter Michel — all jumped in to help, though none of them had ever witnessed a puppy birth before.

"It was wonderful, thrilling, even though we were caught completely off guard," Karen recalled. "The puppies just kept coming and coming.

DOCS USE SOUND WAVES TO CLEAR BLOCKED ARTERIES!

Doctors will soon be treating heart patients' blocked arteries with a new noninvasive technique — using sound waves to clear the coronary arteries.

The procedure, which has been tested in England, could actually replace open-heart bypass surgery, doctors say.

It is used in combination with balloon angioplasty — a technique in which balloons inserted into the arteries squeeze fatty obstructions back against the artery walls. The sound wave process helps break up hard, chalk-like matter that resists pressure of the balloon, softening up a narrowed portion of artery before the balloon is in-

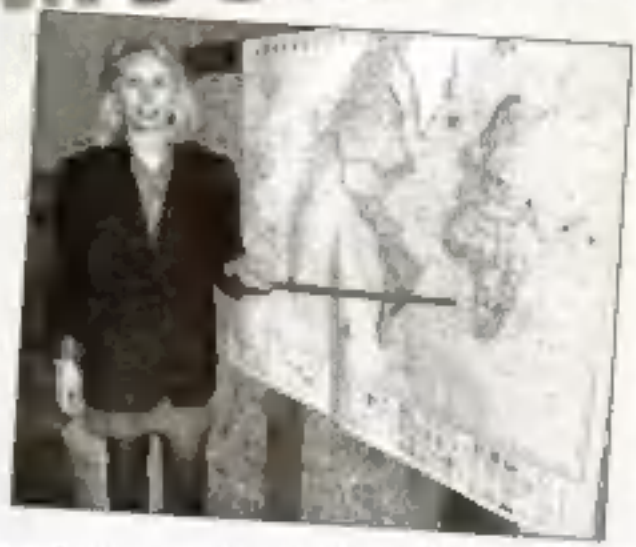
HUMAN SEISMOGRAPH

Housewife predicts earthquakes by the tingling in her fingers and toes!



By KRISTIN MARIS / Special correspondent

AMAZING Hilda Roeser has predicted earthquakes around the world

Amazing Hilda Roeser has accurately predicted every major earthquake for the past 10 years — by the tingling in her fingers and toes!

"Every time I get that tingly feeling, I know the Earth is going to rumble," said the 34-year-old southern California housewife.

"It's been that way since I was 15 years old and I don't have the slightest idea how to explain it." When "Hilda" was 10, her puzzled parents took her to a top neurologist who ran a complete battery of tests.

He found nothing unusual at all. Three other specialists who examined her during the next five years.

It wasn't until she was 23 and went to a palm reader just for fun that the mystery began to unravel.

"When the palm reader took my hand, this incredible current raced through my whole body. It didn't hurt but it terrified me.

"'You have incredible psychic powers,' she told me 'and I believe these electric-like sensations you described coincide with the beginning of an earthquake somewhere.'"

Hilda raced to a library to compare the times and dates of her tinglings with those of major earthquakes around the world.

"It was shocking to see every date and every time exactly the same. I am a walking, talking seismograph but I don't know how or why!" Hilda exclaimed.

Scientists who investigated Hilda's bizarre ability confirmed she can foresee earthquakes.

"She was right on target when she predicted the Yucca Valley, Calif., earthquake on June 22, 1948," said a top U.S. geologist.

For 10 years, the miraculous woman has called a government agency each time the sensations begin.

"Every time, the person I'm talking to on the phone says, 'I was expecting your call. We've got the same quake being recorded on tape.'"

The earthquakes she predicted during the past 10 years include — 1952: Southern Colombia, N. Kamchatka, Japan and Eastern Turkey; 1953: Chile and Mexico City; 1957: Northeast Ecuador; 1958: India/Nepal border, China/Burma border and northwest Armenia; 1959: San Francisco; 1960: Northern Peru, Romania, Northwest Iran and Luzon, Philippines; 1961: Pakistan/Afghanistan border and 1962: Eastern Turkey and Yucca Valley, Calif.

"I wish I could put this ability to use," Hilda lamented "but today's sophisticated seismology equipment does the same thing.

"I'm just considered a freakish phenomenon."

"I've gotten a lot of publicity and I sure wish I could put this ability to use," says Hilda, "but I'm just considered a freakish phenomenon."

'He's better than Presley and Michael Jackson combined!'

BIG BOY Rodrigo Vasconcelos, shown standing next to proud mom Maria.

252-POUND BOY, 4, IS NEWEST SINGING SENSATION

BORN superstar Rodrigo in concert. The titanic tot is wowing millions with his angelic voice and booming "Jupiter Jump" dance.

Brazilian superstar plans U.S. tour later this year!

By MARK JOHNSON / Special correspondent

Big baby Rodrigo Vasconcelos has launched an astonishing career as a pop singer at the tender age of 4. And plans call for the 252-pound youngster to visit the United States to promote his sensational new album — Lard Rock — this spring!

Promoters are billing the fledgling Brazilian performer as the new Michael Jackson and if the comparison sounds ridiculous, consider this: The titanic tot has a voice that critics have called "astonishingly powerful and angelic."

And his stage routine — which includes a mind-boggling version of Jackson's patented Moonwalk — which Rodrigo calls the "Jupiter Jump" — has been hailed as "the most exciting rock ritual ever conceived."

"Rodrigo will take the world by storm," Roberto dos Santos, the boy's agent and manager, said in an interview from his home in Belo Horizonte, Brazil. "People have compared him to Michael Jackson, but if you ask me, he's better than Jackson and Elvis Presley combined. This kid is a born superstar."

Rodrigo — once recognized as the world's biggest baby — made international headlines in 1992 when he lifted a compact car off a man who was pinned when the vehicle toppled off a jack.

The boy was only 3 years old at the time. But he already stood 3-feet-6 — and tilted the scales at a whopping 234 pounds.

Oddly enough, Rodrigo's heroism set the stage for his new career in show business. Dos Santos happened to see the boy on a television talk show and immediately realized that "the kid was not only confident and self-assured, he had a charisma and presence that you rarely see in a child.

"I contacted his parents and told them that I could make him a star," dos Santos said. "He gave Rodrigo singing lessons and the boy took to them like a duck to water.

"We could have waited for him to season, but I was sure that the world was ready for a superstar like Rodrigo right now."

Dos Santos has produced seven new songs as well as classic hits like Hound Dog, R-E-S-P-E-C-T and House of the Rising Sun. People are fascinated by Rodrigo and sales of the album literally shot through the roof," dos Santos said. "We expect it to go gold any day now.

"We're hoping to release an American version of the album with English versions of the songs."

As well as being on his way to becoming a multimillionaire, he refuses to let fame and fortune go to his head. He has pledged 25 percent of his earnings to a small Catholic church he has attended with his parents since birth.

He also entertains sick children in clinics and hospitals throughout Brazil.

IMPATIENT passengers were tired of sitting in their boarding plane — so they got out and pushed it to the runway!

FED-UP PASSENGERS PUSH PLANE ONTO RUNWAY!

'We weren't going to wait another minute'

By JACK ALEXANDER / Staff writer

When their jet was boxed in by other aircraft and couldn't take off, restless passengers hopped out of the 75,000-pound plane — and pushed it to the runway!

"It was either push or sit in those cramped seats for another hour until we could taxi out to the runway," said one of 20 passengers who muscled the plane into place. "We weren't about to wait anymore.

"The pilot said the plane was in a position he couldn't maneuver out of, so we decided to try to ease it out ourselves."

The Ansett, New Zealand airliner had been diverted to Palmerston North Airport after fog temporarily closed the airport in Wellington, New Zealand.

Most of the passengers were commuters eager to get to their homes in Wellington. But when word came that the fog had lifted at Wellington Airport, their pilot informed them they still couldn't leave Palmerston North because their jet was boxed in.

"We didn't want to sit around in a crowded airplane when we could be in the air and on our way," said passenger Ormon Whitehead. "It was a big plane — a real big plane — but we were determined and we rolled it right out onto the runway."

One 43-year-old woman even pitched in to help. "We weren't going to wait another minute," she said.

Once free of the other planes, the passengers returned to their seats and the jet took off.

"It was all done in very good humor," airline public relations manager John Cherry said later.

ARE YOU ADDICTED TO FLIRTING?

DIRTY OR FLIRTY? Which would it be if this stranger offered you a rose?

Are you a flirt — or do you think flirty is dirty?

Take the fun test below to find out if you're addicted to flirting, lively enough to give it a shot now and then — or just an old stick in the mud.

By JULIA McKNIGHT
Staff writer

1. You're introduced to an attractive stranger at a party. Do you say:
a) "Are you a friend of the hostess?"
b) "Are you single?"
c) "Your place or mine?"

2. You're making a phone call when a sexy voice comes in on a crossed line. Do you:
a) Ask them to hang up?
b) Ask them their name and telephone number?
c) Ask them to dance?

3. While waiting in a theater line, you bump into someone you've always had a crush on. A street musician strolls by and asks for your request. You say:
a) I Want to Hold Your Hand — The Beatles.
b) I Want to Know What Love Is — Foreigner.
c) I Want Your Sex — George Michael.

4. On vacation, the gorgeous person serving you in a diner asks in a tempting way if you want anything else. You say:
a) "Just the bill please."
b) "What do you recommend?"
c) "You."

5. A sexy stranger sits beside you in the allergist's office. Do you say:
a) "Would you mind sitting somewhere else? Your after-shave is giving me a headache."
b) "Would you mind watching my things while I see the doctor?"
c) "Can I make a house call tonight?"

6. You're walking down the street when an attractive member of the opposite sex offers you a rose. You say:
a) "Thanks, but flowers make me sneeze."
b) "Thanks. My mom will love this."
c) "Will you come around to water it?"

7. You're at a party and spot someone with a perfect body. What's your reaction?
a) "Hmm, must be dumb or boring or both."
b) "Hmm, must've been a beautiful baby."
c) "Hmm, must have breakfast at my place."

8. You are told by an attractive optician that you need glasses. You say:
a) "Give me the cheapest thing you have."
b) "That's just one more thing to take off before bed."
c) "The better to see you with."

9. A gorgeous new neighbor rings your doorbell and asks to borrow some sugar. You say:
a) "I don't keep the stuff around. It's bad for you."
b) "Cubes, powder or granulated?"
c) "Let me unroll up and I'll bring a cup to your place."

How do you rate?

MOSTLY A's: You're just not interested in that sort of thing.

You'd be afraid to greet someone with even a peck on the cheek for fear they would get the wrong idea. Lighten up!

MOSTLY B's: You're not in love — but you are open to persuasion.

You like to flirt now and then but prefer the soft approach.

MOSTLY C's: You strike up a conversation with anything that moves.

You can be a pest but people admire your energy. Do you flirt because you want love or do you just love flirting?

One-legged granny Mabel Hyams, 79, got so fed up with her cheating hubby Harold that she lunged from her wheelchair — and beat him to death with her bedpan!

She hid her head under a homemade quilt and sobbed as the was wheeled from the courtroom — to manslaughter, but the judge gave her a 12-month suspended sentence and set her free, saying there was no point in sending the pitiful old-timer to prison.

A defense attorney said Mabel "picked up" the bedpan after he reminded her of a fling he had back in 1943 — while she was in a hospital having her leg amputated.

HALF-MAN HALF-DOG BAFFLES SCIENTISTS

By NICK MANN : Special correspondent

Half-man, half-dog Kent Morley has baffled scientists who say that he has the genetic makeup of both man and canine in spite of the fact that his mother and father were human — and normal in every way!

That's the word from geneticist William Cramer, who says that the 38-year-old Morley is currently being studied at Minnesota's famed Mayo Clinic, where doctors are trying to figure out just what he is — and why Mother Nature made him that way.

"This is one of the most intriguing medical mysteries of all time," declared Dr. Cramer, who is widely considered to be one of the world's top authorities on genetic abnormalities and mutations.

"Mr. Morley has the head of a dog, the body and brain of a human being, and the behavioral characteristics of both species. Some people might be inclined to dismiss him as an ordinary freak of nature," he continued, "but nothing could be further from the truth.

"Mr. Nature might make mistakes, but she doesn't make mistakes like this. Mr. Morley turned out the way he did for a reason. And some of the best minds in the field are bound and determined to find out what that reason is."

Spokesmen for the Mayo Clinic declined to comment on Dr. Cramer's report.

But the Washington-based geneticist not only stands by his story, he says clinic staffers have consulted him almost daily since the half-man, half-dog man admitted for testing and evaluation under an assumed name on March 14.

He added that Morley, who earns a very good living as a computer programmer, is extremely intelligent — with an IQ in the 135 range.

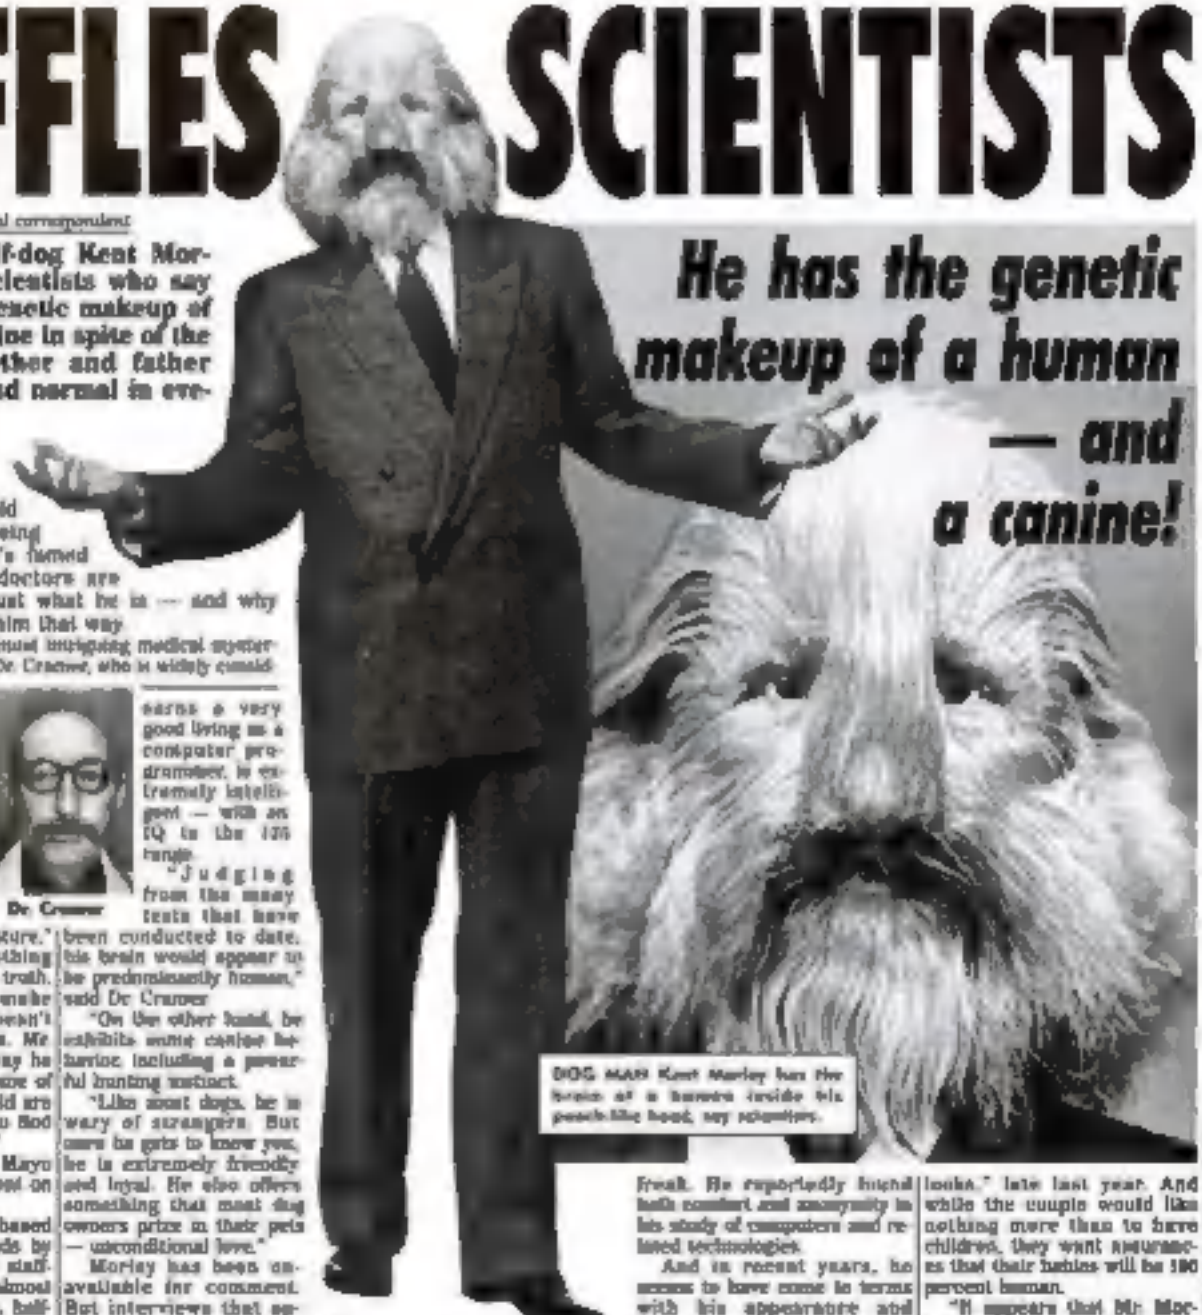
Dr. Cramer

"Judging from the many tests that have been conducted to date, his brain would appear to be predominantly human," said Dr. Cramer.

"On the other hand, he exhibits many canine behavior, including a powerful hunting instinct.

"Like most dogs, he is wary of strangers. But once he gets to know you, he is extremely friendly and loyal. He also offers something that most dog owners price in their pets — unconditional love."

Morley has been unavailable for comment. But interviews that appeared in science and medical journals over the past few years indicate that he suffered psychologically for most of his life.



DOG MAN Kent Morley has the brain of a human inside his pooch-like head, say scientists.

"normal" children and forced to endure the stares and comments of complete strangers.

Finally, he decided to become a freak. He reportedly found both comfort and anonymity in his study of computers and related technologies.

And in recent years, he seems to have come to terms with his appearance and learned to accept himself for what he is.

In fact, Dr. Cramer says Morley met and married a Dr. Jekyll look-alike last year. And while the couple would like nothing more than to have children, they want assurances that their babies will be 100 percent human.

"It appears that Mr. Morley can father normal children but we can't be sure until the results of a few more tests are in and analyzed," Dr. Cramer said.

ALLEGED killer Bruce Brewster complained openly about premises being overcrowded

By JACK ALEXANDER

A restless teen hated living in a cramped trailer with five other members of his family, so he gave himself a little elbow room, cops say — by blasting them all away with a shotgun!

Bruce Brewster [illegible] accused of gunning down his 33-year-old father Mark, his dad's live-in girlfriend Ruth Bernstein, 31, and Ruth's daughters Crystal, 7, Mindy, 5, and Heidi, 10, on Christmas Eve.

After the shootings the teenager joined the bodies in a stolen wagon and burned it [illegible].

The girl apparently couldn't stand living with the other people — [illegible] heater without running water or plumbing of any kind," sheriff's deputy Steve Moore told Weekly World News.

During a hearing, defense lawyers argued that Bruce was a victim of emotional and physical abuse and that the killings were "self-preservation."

They said he had been raised in "privation" by years with no electricity or plumbing and no running water.

A schoolteacher said Bruce complained about the family's cramped living style in the weeks before the murders.

"Before his dad's girlfriend moved in with her daughters it was just Bruce and his father in the trailer," a cop said.

The teen was pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity in the deaths of his dearest family. He will be tried [illegible]

Flip Wilson was the king of comedy in the early '70s. The Flipster was a couple of Emmys, his TV show was ranked No. 2 and he even made the cover of Time magazine. His expression, "The devil made me do it," was on everyone's lips. So, what happened?

"There was a time when I was doing the show when I was a hero to everyone else's kids, but my own kids were not seeing me." Wilson recalls. "There were other people looking after my kids."

Now Wilson has a new grandchild named Geraldine, in honor of his most famous character. "I don't think Geraldine will be back. She was the girl of my dreams and she carried me long at that my mother did," says Flip.

Flip spends his time now taking honey orders and racing his motorcycle. "I invented wheels and am very well taken care of," he says. And we know who made you do it.

WORST HAIRCUT OF 1992: KEVIN COSTNER!

SUPERSTAR Kevin Costner's a hairdo in Bodyguard made Whitney Houston look good

It's proof-positive that Kevin Costner's HAIRCUT was the Golden Raspberry Award for the Worst Star in 1992. You heard right. Costner's "do" in Bodyguard was so atrocious that the Awards folks gave it a star. Juliette Costner had some stiff competition from Michael Douglas' "Bellini in Fatima Dawn Lake. She really shortened Mike's back and stands up and screams.

The plus side of Costner's horrible haircut is that it made Whitney Houston look like she has normal hair, says one beauty critic. "She didn't look like she was wearing a wig," says Texas salon owner Todd Allen.

Sport of terror...

Arabs strap screaming children to the backs of racing camels!

YOUNG BOYS have replaced adults as jockeys for camel races

Thousands of hapless kids are being forced to compete in a horrifying new sport where rich Arabs strap little boys to the backs of wild racing camels — as their screams of terror will spur the beasts to run faster!

The shrieking camel jockeys are in such demand that a new slave trade has sprung up for boys age 3 to 5.

Thousands of tots are being kidnapped or bought from their parents each year, often quite cheaply — and many die in the dangerous high-speed sport.

So far, 17 little boys were reported killed during races in legal races, and we're certain there were many deaths that were never reported," said Mohammed Rassis, spokesman for a children's rights group in Yemen, where many of the races take place.

"We know that 30 or more of the little ones are used in each race and eight or ten races are run each day during the racing season in Yemen alone. These races are a big deal all over the Arab world.

"Camel owners stand to make big money from prize and breeding contracts if they win races, and it is widely believed that young boys like these make the best jockeys. There is a tremendous demand for them."

Most of the child camel jockeys come from poor countries like Bangladesh, where parents will be tempted by cash that they see their sons as desk peddlers to make ends meet.

Other children are also kidnapped by unscrupulous slavers in Afghanistan Iran, Bangladesh and India, then smuggled out of their native lands and sold for cash almost $4,000 each.

The little boys are transported like sheep in enclosed trucks and vans, arriving in the Middle East after torturous eight-hour journeys during which they are deprived of food and water. Many die during the trip.

If they survive the journey, they are almost immediately strapped to the back of a mechanical camel and catapulted over a 6 mile racing course as the blazing noonday sun. Their screams bring joy to the ears of rich Arabs who bet millions of dollars on each race.

"Many of the poor kids are thrown off and trampled to death, but the dealers and the rich men who bet them simply don't care," Rassis said. "They know there's an endless supply of new little boys to replace those that die."

Young mom leaves newborn on preacher's doorstep

. . . after she refused to get an abortion!

A heartbroken young mother left her newborn baby on a minister's doorstep — because she was afraid her cruel father would abuse the little girl if she brought her home!

The mystery mom deposited her red-haired daughter at the home of the Reverend Samuel L. Reed of Alliance, Neb., along with a touching note declaring her love for the child she could not keep.

"The mother called me at about 10:30 p.m. and said she just put her baby on our doorstep," said the minister's wife Barbara. "She asked us to please raise her and said she knew that our daughter Carolyn would help us raise the baby. I have no idea who it was.

"When I asked for her name, she hung up the phone. I ran downstairs, opened my front door and found this huge bundle on the front porch."

Inside the bundle of blankets was a beautiful baby girl. Attached to the blankets was a heartrending note.

"The baby's name is April," it said. "My dad wanted me to have an abortion, but I wouldn't do it. Now I want my baby to be raised by someone who won't be mean to her if I don't see her soon, my dad would be mean to her.

"I love April and I'll always remember the two days I had with her."

The Reeds say they prayed over the abandoned baby, and they feel it helped them decide what to do with her. Then they called police and took the little girl to a hospital.

Little April was suffering from a slightly lowered body temperature, but otherwise the 8 pound 6 ounce infant was in good shape, doctors said.

She was hospitalized for observation for several days, then returned to the minister and his wife.

"April is with us — that's what the mother wanted," the Rev. Reed told Weekly World News. "It's an adjustment, but it's a pleasant adjustment.

"Meanwhile, we've had scores of calls from people begging to take the baby. We tend to get the word out that there are people all over the place who want children.

"Young mothers who are pregnant and can't keep their babies don't seem aware of that.

"If they would just give their babies up legally — come forward and sign papers giving up parental rights — the baby could find a happy home right away."

But the Reeds say they are considering adopting little April themselves.

"She's quite kind of a treat, but, for Lord, I feel," Barbara says. "We intend to follow through and see that April gets taken care of the best way possible."

What's more, the crooks had tuned up the engine and installed new exhaust pipes.

"It had a full tank of gas, so that was great, too!" Helen told reporters in Apollo Beach, Fla. The car was recovered and four teens arrested as part of a crackdown on car thieves, Lawmen said.

RACCOON RAIDS DUMPSTERS — TO HELP FEED HOMELESS!

A raccoon has been stealing left-overs from neighborhood dumpsters — and taking it to a soup kitchen for the homeless.

"We thought that someone was illegally dumping garbage at our doorstep," said a volunteer worker at the shelter in New York City. "We sat up one night and were shocked by what we saw."

Shelter workers followed the raccoon as it left the shelter, jumping over fences and into backyards. The animal visited several restaurants and supermarkets and brought the food straight back to the shelter instead of eating it.

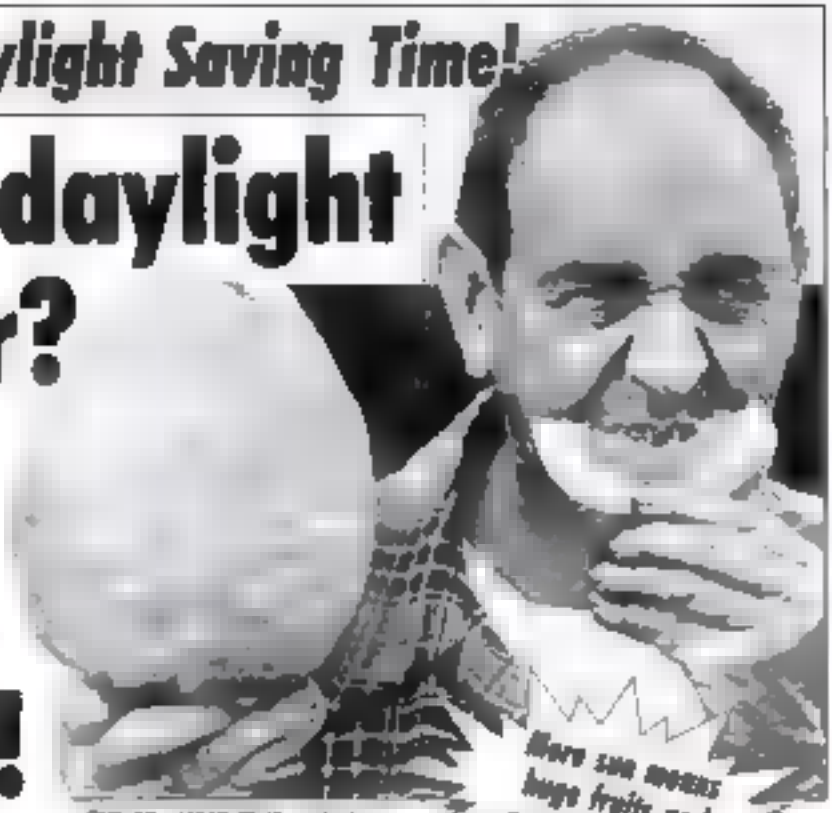
Twice as good ■■ Daylight Saving Time!

Want more daylight this summer? Move your clock ahead TWO HOURS!



THE ED ANGER TIME method was used by Robert Hastings to grow this world record tomato that weighs five pounds.

I just came up with a great idea to give everybody more hours of daylight this summer — and I'm calling it Ed Anger Time or EAT for short.

Instead of just moving the clock ahead one hour for Daylight Saving Time, I'm going to move my watch and clocks ahead TWO hours. That means when I get off work at 5 o'clock it'll REALLY only be three o'clock — and that means nearly six hours of fun 'n' sun AFTER work, folks.

That's enough time to play a round of golf, mow the lawn and still have an hour or two of sun left for fishing — every single day!

And just think of all the whopper tomatoes you could grow with all this extra sunlight. They'll be as big as bowling balls.

Hey, I know all this scientific stuff is complicated as hell for some people. Albert Einstein was working on the Theory of Daylight Saving Time when he died and even he never completely figured it out. But trust me on this: my time saving formula will work like a charm if done properly. You don't have to get a headache thinking about it and it's simple as pie to get started.

Let's say you've moved your clock ahead ONE hour for Daylight Saving Time but you would like to begin taking advantage of my new afternoon stretcher INSTANTLY. Just twist your watch and clock hands AHEAD one more hour and Bingo — you're on Ed Anger Time.

But if you forget to move your clock ahead one hour to get on Daylight Saving Time, you'll have to move all your timepieces ahead TWO hours.

If you get on Ed Anger Time and find you don't like it, you can switch back to regular Daylight Saving Time in the fall after Daylight Saving Time is over.

But the greatest thing about Ed Anger Time is that it gives you the flexibility of being on both times at once.

Let's say you want to work on regular Daylight Saving Time. Simple. Just set your wristwatch by the office or factory clock.

That way, you'll always know when the boss is coming in or leaving.

You can keep your home clocks on Ed Anger Time and still enjoy all the benefits.

And to give all my fans out there a chance to jump on the Ed Anger Time Bandwagon, I'm going to make it official.

On Sunday, May 2, at 2 a.m. Eastern Daylight Time we'll all move our clocks ahead one MORE hour. You won't believe how long and wonderful those summer afternoons can be till you've experienced them on Ed Anger Time. It's an idea whose time has come.

Japanese bride weds space alien!

MIYOKI TANAKA and her groom X1431. "It is our hope the couple will soon have their world's first star baby," says the bride's brother Katsuo.

By SALLY CARRUBBA, staff writer

Beautiful bride Miyoki Tanaka said her vows in a touching formal wedding ceremony — and gave her hand in marriage to a bug-eyed space alien!

The headline-making wedding, which took place on March 29 in Nagoya, Japan, was attended by members of the bride's family and by relatives of the groom, an extraterrestrial named X1431. It is believed to be the first instance of an interplanetary wedding, friends of the couple say.

"It is an arranged marriage but Miyoki is very happy with it," says Katsuo Tanaka, brother of the 19-year-old bride. "She is proud to be the first Earth woman to marry someone from another planet.

"Her husband X1431 is thrilled. He has great admiration for women from this planet and especially the Japanese who are so intelligent and hardworking and successful.

"He looks forward to cooperating in businesses ventured with his fellow citizens, especially in communications and other high-tech enterprises."

The bizarre union came about after two years of negotiations between the father of X1431 and Mr. Hirokazu Tanaka, the bride's businessman father.

The dickering began in January 1991, after X1431 — a scientist-turned-starship pilot — landed his spacecraft near the Tanakas' suburban home and spotted Miyoki in the garden.

Within days the Tanakas began receiving telepathic messages suggesting that the family consider a formal marriage between Miyoki, a student at a local teaching college, and X1431.

"They told us they lived outside our solar system in another system with two suns," recalled Katsuo, 28.

"They said they wanted to improve links with Earth and that X1431, being of excellent family and very impressed with Miyoki, had volunteered to be the first extraterrestrial to take an Earthling bride.

"They guaranteed my family that she would be well taken care of and that they could of course visit Miyoki on their home planet whenever they wished.

"Since then the Tanakas began receiving telepathic messages suggesting that the family consider a formal marriage between Miyoki, a student at a local teaching college, and X1431.

"They told us they lived outside our solar system in another system with two suns," recalled Katsuo, 28.

"They said they wanted to improve links with Earth and that X1431, being of excellent family and very impressed with Miyoki, had volunteered to be the first extraterrestrial to take an Earthling bride.

"They guaranteed my family that she would be well taken care of and that they could of course visit Miyoki on their home planet whenever they wished.

"Their one great advantage to my family is that I'm helping with our technology.

"They said they wanted a formal Shinto ceremony, a wedding just like a Japanese groom might have."

The Tanakas consulted with Miyoki, who thought the proposal over for several months before she agreed to the wedding.

When X1431's family agreed that the couple would live on Earth and outside the solar system, the Tanakas signed a marriage contract with the space alien.

Then, on March 29 at 10 a.m. lovely Miyoki and her alien suitor said their vows in a traditional Shinto ceremony. Parents of the bride and groom took part in the wedding and hosted a reception afterwards.

"Of course, we had to have food for the aliens at the reception. Things like clover juice, egg yolk and brine — that they can safely eat," Katsuo said.

"The humans ate a regular feast of rice and raw fish with lots of sake.

"We feel it went very well and we are looking forward to the future.

"It is our hope that the couple will soon have the world's first star baby, and that this child will be the first of many mixed breed young-sters to be born to space aliens and their human mates."

Pretty student is the first Earth woman to marry someone from another planet!

THE BRIDE'S mom and dad arranged their daughter's wedding after receiving telepathic messages from X1431's parents.

YOUR FAVORITE TIME OF DAY REVEALS YOUR PERSONALITY!

The time of day you like best tells a lot about your personality, a famed psychologist says.

"The time you feel most alive and in tune with yourself is closely related to your own inner clockwork," says Dr. Elayne Kahn.

Here's the kind of personality you have according to your favorite time of day:

● Dawn. If you like the earliest part of the day you're an optimist and like to be one step ahead of the crowd. You eagerly greet each day with exuberance and always radiate health and good humor. You can't wait to get on with your work.

● Morning. You are very orderly. Your life is fully organized and by the time you get to work, you know exactly what you're going to do and how much time you have to do it.

● Noon. You're warm-hearted with a soft spot for people. You enjoy good conversation.

● Afternoon. You tend to start slowly, but once your engine starts running, you can't be stopped. You have an enormous energy supply.

● Sunset. You love the fellowship of friends and the warm closeness you feel with your family. The important thing for you is to be able to unwind and listen up.

● Evening. You keep up with the best in TV, the movies and books. You are stylish, well educated and a virtual encyclopedia of pop culture. Friends often look to you to recall the name of an old movie or actor.

● The small hours. You're a loner with a restless mind. You enjoy mystery and intrigue and you need a lot of time to yourself. You have a well-developed sense of right and wrong, and the plight of the underdog always tugs at your heart.

Angry neighbors throw rotten tomatoes at desperate dad — after he mailed death threats to his cheerleader daughter!

ANGRY neighbors have turned their Illinois life into a living hell after he allegedly mailed death threats to his cheerleading squad daughter, cops say.

By JULIA McKNIGHT

A blow-and-out dad arrested for writing death threats against his daughter to scare her off the cheerleading squad got a slap on the wrist in court — but his neighbors are making his life a living hell!

Supermarket bagger Dennis Dean, 48, admitted mailing anonymous letters threatening to kill his daughter Jennie if she didn't quit cheerleading.

Dean signed the letters "Trigger Happy" and sent them to Jennie's school principal, her cheerleading coach and even to his own home.

A sympathetic judge fined Dean $500 and placed him on five years' probation. But outraged neighbors of little Chillicothe, Ill., and even to his own home. "Haven't been as kind to the couldn't afford to keep Jennie on the squad.

Terrifying telephone calls to school "intimidators" who say they scream "you're crazy" from passing cars, then burst rocks through his apartment windows and splatter his car with rotten tomatoes.

But the father of two admits he's neither crazy nor a monster. He says he wrote the letters — containing threats like "Do you want us to go to her funeral" but not all the letters "of course" — because he couldn't afford to keep Jennie on the cheerleading squad.

He said he was already committed to paying $300 a year for Jennie's cheerleading when she asked her to cough up another $200 to send her to gymnastics. "I went crazy when Jennie said, 'Dad, you've got to come up with the money or else,'" Dean recalled.

"I just figured the letters would scare her into resigning. I guess I didn't think it through."

Dean later pleaded guilty to sending a threatening communication through the mail. A federal judge could have sentenced him to five years in prison but placed him on probation instead.

The judge said he took into account the fact that Dean posed no threat to the community and had no previous record.

Slowly, father and daughter are putting things right and the family is trying to work through its problems, defense attorney Don Kirka said. But the desperate dad says his world is anything but normal. "I stay in the house a lot," he said.

"Yes, I'm ashamed of what I did — but the worst thing is that people just won't let it die."

Dotti, I want your job — and I'm the right MAN for it!

Confidential

Dear Trusting Wife in Hampton: I hate to tell you this, but the vast majority of garbage men in this country DO NOT work late at the office!

Dear Angry in Miami: Go die!

Dear Terrified in Northridge: If a man invited you up to his bedroom with a roll of nine-volts I'd be terrified, too!

Dear Pregnant in Belmont: You should have thought about that before you jumped out of the cake at your brother's bachelor party!

Dear Adventurous Girl in Pines: I don't care how good the stuff tastes — it ain't what I call dieting!

Dear Love-struck in Kansas: I've already got a good man but let's face it — variety spells!

Dear Wondering in Surrey: There's an "oriental fling" about it — your sub is a bidet!

Dear Upset in Salina: All on a firecracker's perk!

Dear Dotti: This is just a little note to advise you that I have applied for your job. I'm sure your editor will replace you after he reads my resume. Besides, it's a man's world and the right person for your job is a man like me.

P.S. Please accept the quarter that I sent along with this letter. You might need it to make a phone call or buy a cup of coffee after I take your job! — Danny in Peterborough

Dear Danny: I asked the boss about your resume and he said it was quite impressive. He weakly recalled that you manipulated his name seven times — and signed your name with a black crayon!

People pinch my chubby cheeks like a ripe melon!

Dear Dotti: I'm as skinny as a string bean but I have an extremely fat face. People love to come up to me and grab my cheeks and pinch and squeeze the heck out of them. When I tell people to leave my face alone they just laugh and pinch it more. And I'm not a kid — I'm 36 years old! What would you do if you were in my shoes? — Darling in Weston

Dear Darling: I'm certainly no advocate of violence but I will say this: The next person who pinches my face is STILL asking people what it feels like to have 10 fingers broken at once!

Since I dream of celebs — am I hungry for love?

Dear Dotti: Every night when I go to sleep I dream that I'm in a banquet hall with a gorgeous man. He gently takes my hand and leads me down a long elevator table that's piled high with fat calories, whole ripe bananas and thick, juicy cheeseburgers. Just as I start to reach for a calorie, I wake up with gross bumps, trembling all over. I'm a single woman in my late 20s and can't make heads nor tails of this dream. My friends say it's about sex. What do you think? — Anxious in Westchester

Dear Anxious: I agree with your friends and advise you to find yourself a man — before you go plump!

Dotti, you look like a bingo-playing old hermit!

Dear Dotti: Whenever I see your picture in Weekly World News I have a good laugh. Your hairstyle looks like something you'd find on senior citizens at bingo halls. And I'll bet your hair would be as flat as your chest if you didn't use a can of hairspray to keep it puffed up! — Beverly in Atlanta

Dear Beverly: Everyone is entitled to an opinion — even an idiot like you. For future reference, my bustline has been on the high side of 38 since I was seven! (8)

How can a high school grad grab hold of the high life?

Dear Dotti: I'll graduate from high school in a few months and need some good advice to help me succeed in life. Thanks in advance. — Wilting in Ogden

Dear Wilting: I'll tell you what my daddy told me when I graduated from high school. Marry rich, drive Lincolns and NEVER take no for an answer!

Dotti will answer your letters — and tell it like it is. Just write to her, c/o Weekly World News, 600 South East Coast Ave., Lantana, Fla. 33464.

Ask Serena

Serena, can you make my hair grow back?

Dear Serena: Ever since I had surgery for a brain tumor I've been bald as a billiard ball.

This wouldn't be so bad if I was a man, but I'm a 42-year-old woman. I've tried everything to make it grow back but nothing helps. Can you do anything for me? — Bald in Baltimore

Dear Bald: I can cast a spell to make your hair grow back but there will be a few side effects. For the first few months you'll have light to moderate facial hair. And you'll probably have to shave your legs twice as often as you did before. If you're still interested drop me another line. Should you choose to accept the spell, you'll have a full head of hair in no time!

Dear Serena: I've been married to a wonderful man for 15 years. Recently I've been feeling very attracted to my best friend's husband. I don't know how in the world this happened but I'm getting up in years and time is running out. — Yearning in Memphis

Dear Yearning: Your long lost friend is living in Nashville but getting in touch is all relevant. You might have fond memories of her — but she has never forgotten you for making her husband so many years ago.

Dear Serena: I would like to win a big bingo jackpot. Is there any special day I should play? — Anxious in Kansas

Dear Anxious: Yes, there is. Any day but Tuesday!

Dear Serena: Quick question: Is there an Indian burial ground on my mother's property? — Curious in Cheshire

Dear Curious: There most certainly is — and I strongly suggest that you leave it alone!

Jersey jumpers will lead the way — but they need your help!

Staff ...

The guys at a New Jersey bar are calling on millions of loyal Americans to join them in stomping out another stupid Chinese plot to knock the Earth out of orbit!

"You'd think those crazy Chinese would learn by now they haven't got a chance in hell of doing their dirty work as long as patriotic Americans stand up to them," Tim O'Malley, manager of Oaklyn Manor Bar in Oaklyn, N.J. told Weekly World News.

Less than two years ago, world leaders discovered that 1.3 billion Chinese planned to jolt the Earth out of orbit and send it sailing off into space — by jumping up and down at the same time.

The plan was clearly suicidal. When the Earth sailed away from the sun, the Chinese would have frozen to death just like the rest of us. But a counter-stomp by O'Malley and 13 of his customers, along with millions of other loyal Americans, foiled the Chinese

The team at the Pittsburg State Fire Department have assured the NEWS they will also conduct a counter jump to save the world.

Amazing New Product Gives Crisp, Clear TV Reception WITHOUT Cable!

Until recently, the only convenient way to guarantee great TV reception was to get cable installed. But who wants to pay those irritating monthly cable fees just to get clear reception? Now, thanks to years of micro-electronic research, a new device has been developed that's so advanced it actually makes other antennas a thing of the past. It's called the SWEDA™ Power Antenna and is without a doubt "the single most important thing you should own if you have a TV!"

A PICTURE OF ADVANCED TECHNOLOGY!

Just imagine watching TV and seeing a picture so brilliantly clear that you'd almost swear you were there live! Just plug this tiny 2" x 4" Power Antenna into any ordinary AC outlet, connect your TV and get ready for the best reception you've ever had without cable. You'll watch in amazement as YOUR TV set suddenly displays a sharp, focused picture. You literally "won't believe your eyes!" Even older TV sets suddenly come to life. The Power Antenna is so easy to install, so convenient to use, and so incredibly effective that you'll wonder how you ever got by without it!

A THOUSAND FOOT ANTENNA?

Power Antenna is a highly sophisticated electronic product (like a transistor radio) with a simple function. It takes the electrical wiring in your house or apartment (hundreds or thousands of feet) and turns it into a giant TV reception station! It's almost like having an antenna the size of your entire house! Imagine how effective that would be. But there's more, because Power Antenna takes that signal and electronically boosts it before it gets to your TV set. The results are amazing! You can finally enjoy your favorite prime time shows or sports events the way they were meant to be.

WHAT ABOUT MY TV "DISH" ANTENNA?

Return it! Millions of these things have been sold in recent years because people were led to believe they would work like a satellite dish. The truth is that they're no more effective than rabbit-ears, a loop, or rod antenna — and people have been struggling with these things for years! The incredible SWEDA™ Power Antenna makes everything else seem obsolete. Just plug it in and watch it work. There's simply NOTHING ELSE better valued on the market today!

LIMITED TIME OFFER!

Electronic antennas like this one normally sell for $50 or more! But now, for a limited time (if you respond before May 20, 1993), you can have the amazing SWEDA™ Power Antenna for just $19.95. Experience the best reception you've ever had or simply return it within 30 days for a prompt and courteous refund. You absolutely must see it to believe it! ORDER TODAY.

MYSTERY RAY FROM THIS UFO CURED 22 PEOPLE!

By MICKEY McGUIRE

At least 22 sick and crippled people were miraculously cured when they were bathed in an eerie greenish light — that pulsated from a gigantic UFO hovering over their city!

Official reports from western Turkey said the incredible cures began six months after the silvery, saucer-shaped spaceship streaked silently down from the heavens to hover for more than an hour just over the treetops.

And what is being hailed as the most sensational photograph ever made of a flying saucer was taken by a Turkish official in the city of Manisa. "Hundreds of people here saw the UFO. They saw it arrive and then watched it depart.

"But even more amazing than the photograph is the overwhelming evidence that something from the sky healed at least 22 sick and crippled people."

A physician, Dr. Mehmet Sagiroglu, talked to a woman named Inci Cubuk, whose 10-year-old son Ismail Alacalli was suffering from cancer of crippling arthritis that had kept him bedridden for years.

"With tears streaming from her eyes, she told me how his twisted limbs slowly straightened as the UFO's ghostly light washed over his frail body," Dr. Sagiroglu recalled.

"She said when the rays from the UFO touched him the pain vanished from his body and he startled, stared as his fingers slowly began to become relaxed and began to straighten.

"His legs, too, became straight and he was able to walk for the first time in almost 10 years."

Dr. Sagiroglu said he has examined several other patients and known them completely cured of their ailments — including Kamil Yuksel, a middle-age man who had been a stroke victim for many years.

I couldn't believe my eyes when Kamil came walking into my office on healthy legs after the UFO passed over him for years," Dr. Sagiroglu said. "I simply don't know what to think. I just couldn't believe it happened, but it did."

Medical officials have asked experts in the area to examine dozens of other people who say they have regained being cured by the strange light.

So far the group of seven people who were dying of cancer who appear to be completely cured. One doctor confirmed: "But only time will tell us if the cures are permanent or merely some kind of coincidental miracle remission."

Another doctor confirmed that a [illegible] described as Human Kirlian energies and near death [illegible]

MIRACLE AFTER MIRACLE: Amazing cures were reported all over the city after the UFO visited. Kamil Yuksel, left, walks from a prayer. Hasan Kurd, 9, center, was near death with kidney failure, and Inci Cubuk, right, said her crippled husband walked.

Weekly World News revealed in its September 7 issue that the captain of the spaceship was captured by KGB agents when the aliens left their craft after landing in a park in the city of Minsk.

"It would be too much of a coincidence for two UFOs to be making such dramatic visits within weeks of each other," one Turkish official declared.

FAT FOLKS LESS LIKELY TO DIE VIOLENTLY!

One good thing about being fat — you're much less likely to die violently!

A forensic expert's study of violent death victims across America revealed that only 12 percent of them were overweight. "I was shocked," said Dr. Kenneth Warner. "Since 30 percent of the population is overweight, I expected one of every four violent death victims to be overweight."

Of 726 victims studied, Dr. Warner discovered these surprising facts:

● Vehicle accidents were the most common cause of violent death for fat people, killing 18 of his overweight subjects.

● Suicide took the lives of 22 overweight people, compared to 138 thin people.

● Murder claimed only 18 fat people, while 188 thin people became murder victims.

Dr. Warner said he can't explain why thin people are more likely to die violently than fat people, but he guessed that differences in life-style play a key role.

"Overweight people are not as likely as thin people to engage in dangerous sports such as skydiving or hot-air ballooning. In addition, murder victims tend to be younger and young people are less likely to be overweight," the doctor said.

For his study, Dr. Warner defined an overweight person as someone who is at least 10 percent over his or her ideal body weight.

MIRACLE KITTY!

Movers pack cat in a box by mistake — & drive him 2,000 miles!

ONE LUCKY CAT: Max

By SUSAN JIMISON/ Staff writer

Max the cat was accidentally packed inside a moving crate, loaded into a van and whisked away on a harrowing nine-day journey without food or water — but he miraculously survived the ordeal without a scratch!

The traveling tom was finally found in a storage facility far from his Orlando, Fla., home when moving company workers heard his feeble cries. He was treated by a vet, then flown home for a happy reunion with owner Joe Marotta.

"He's having bad nightmares," said Marotta, 28, "but otherwise he's okay. He wakes noises in his sleep in the middle of the night.

"I nudge him to wake him up and he looks at me with this frightened look on his face, then he goes back to sleep."

Max's hair-raising adventure began on the day Joe's roommate was transferred to Memphis and Joe was at work. Tired out by all the commotion, 6-month-old Max apparently decided to take a snooze in one of the packing boxes.

Movers came, taped up all the big crates and loaded them onto a giant moving van.

That afternoon the truck left Orlando for Miami, where it picked up a second load. The movers then headed for Memphis, unaware that a kitty was part of their cargo.

A vet gave the pitiful puss food and fluids and pronounced him in good health. A kindhearted United Van Lines worker took him home and put him on a plane for Orlando the next day.

"When I picked him up at the baggage claim and opened the door to his shipping container, he strolled out and hopped over on his back as if to say, 'I sure am glad to be home,'" Joe recalled.

OPERATING ROOM SHOCKER!

What surgeons really talk about while they're slicing you open!

By JACK ALEXANDER
Staff writer

Dramatic new studies show that patients often hear doctors talking even when they've been knocked out in preparation for surgery.

And some of the things they hear, say researchers, are enough to curl your hair

In a five year study of patients throughout Europe, Asia and the United States, Drs. Jean Lirat and Helmut Bauer found that doctors had been heard

- Discussing nights of passion with interns and nurses
- Giving each other golf tips
- Complaining about the service department at a BMW dealership
- Plotting unnecessary post surgery tests to inflate their bills
- Ordering dinners and lunches
- Asking for a drink
- Joking about a patient's private parts
- Moaning about having hangovers or the shakes.
- Threatening to botch an operation because they didn't like the patient
- Betting on whether a patient would live or die
- Chiding nurses and assistants to put surgery on, arrest or telephone their girlfriends or wives

PATIENT? on the operating table have heard some really subversive lines, says new study

Stunned patients listen to docs swap golf tips and tell jokes!

In one of the most unusual cases, a Belgian bill heart patient heard a surgeon tell nurses he was having an affair with the nun's wife while the poor sap was prone on the operating room table during triple bypass surgery.

"It's unprofessional to say the very least," Drs. Lirat and Bauer of Paris wrote in letters to leading medical journals. "Doctors don't have to behave saints in the operating room. But they should certainly behave with a little more decorum than they do."

The evidence shows that many patients are hearing these discussions even while they're under anesthesia," the doctors said. "We can't explain the phenomenon, but our best advice to doctors is this: If you don't want a patient to hear it, keep your Jealous husband injects wife with drugs — to keep her at home, say cops!

By JACK ALEXANDER Staff writer

A jealous husband was so afraid his wife would leave him that he kept her locked in a bedroom for days at a time, cops said — and eventually filled her with a mind-numbing drug!

"Here's a guy who would do just about anything to keep his wife at home, where he thought she belonged," said a lawman in Waterloo, Iowa.

Terrified Margaret Moore, 26, told cops her screams for help fell on deaf ears the night her husband, Dean, pulled out a hypodermic needle and shot an unknown drug into her veins.

As the drug's wife struggled against the effects of the powerful narcotic, their crumbling kids — ages 6, 7 and 10 — crouched out the back door, ran to a neighbor's house and called their grandmother, Patricia Eastman.

The worried grandma rushed over to her daughter's home even though she knew Dean was dangerous, she told police.

"I just got fed up. I didn't care if I got killed or what," she said, adding that her body sagged to the floor after she kicked out the door and put a shotgun to her throat.

"He held me against a wall and said he'd kill me," Mrs. Eastman said. "I was petrified. He looked an evil."

Then Moore ran out the door, jumped in his car and drove away.

Cops spotted the car a few minutes later and arrested him.

Meanwhile, he drugged wife was taken to a hospital, where she spent three days fighting off the effects of the drug.

It wasn't the first time Moore had turn ed violent when his wife tried to leave, according to Mrs. Eastman.

She said he had locked her daughter up on several occasions.

"He wouldn't [illegible] let her out to work for the [illegible]," she said.

Police Lt. Robert Greenlee said Moore admitted holding his struggling wife to the floor and injecting her with the drug.

He is being held on $15,000 bond, charged with domestic abuse, assault and being armed with intent to injure.

THE BRAVE LITTLE BLISTER BABY!

By SUSAN JAMISON

Little Ashley Vainavica will never know the tender caresses of her loving parents — because every hug and squeeze raises a horrifying blister all her tiny body.

The adorable 1-year old suffers from a rare incurable skin condition called epidermolysis bullosa, which prevents the outer layer of her skin from bonding with the inner layer. Wherever she is rubbed or touched, a fluid-filled blister develops and becomes an open wound.

"She's like a burn victim," her mother Deb told Weekly World News. "We have to be careful with her upset stomach or she doesn't get an infection.

"She requires constant care and it's been hard. We try to do the best we can but hope someone finds a cure. Otherwise, there's not much we can do."

Ashley's rare disease is a genetic condition that affects about 10,000 people worldwide.

The ailment was diagnosed shortly after the Freeport, Mich. girl was born and it's made her brief life miserable.

Doctors say her problems were because her nerves are the gross older. But the new, her parents must spend every available hour just trying to keep her healthy.

Because any pressure on Ashley's skin can cause wounds the child has to wear loose clothing without buttons or snaps. Her feet are specially wrapped so they can bear her weight, but she can't tolerate shoes.

Before picking her up her mom and dad have to wrap her in a special cheesecloth that will be gentle on her tender skin.

Because even the tissue on the inside of her body is affected by the disease, Ashley can eat only strained baby food and special high-calorie liquids. Hard foods like crackers or chips might injure the inside of her throat and cause it to swell shut.

Problems with her air passages force her to live with a tracheotomy tube, and several times a year she has to undergo laser surgery to clear her throat.

"She doesn't play as much as a normal child," Deb says. "She's very cautious. She walks a little, but doesn't run around. Generally she sits and plays with her toys or watches TV."

Even a mother's kiss will cause a painful sore!

Gambler arrested for using ghost to cheat at roulette!

MONTE CARLO, Monaco — High roller Lars Alders has been arrested for cheating at roulette — with the help of a friendly ghost.

"We have videotape proof this man uses a ghost to move the roulette ball so he will win his bets," said Detective Francois Berry. "We also taped him bragging to a friend about his cheat and how he never loses.

"We take this fraud at thing very seriously."

DARLING little Ashley breaks out in painful blisters any time someone touches her.

blisters are really painful, but then, having skin like this is all she knows. She's never been without blisters."

Deb and her husband Ben share Ashley's care with her grandmothers and special duty nurses. She has to be watched around the clock to see that her tracheotomy tube doesn't clog and impair her breathing.

"She can't talk because her voice box and vocal cords are overgrown with tissue, but she is learning sign language," her mother says. "She is bright and happy.

"It's really different, really a strange thing taking care of someone like Ashley. It's hard to learn all that you have to learn. We just take it one day at a time."

LOVING parents Deb and Ben Velencia have devoted their lives to their courageous daughter Ashley — but they

WHY WOMEN CHEAT!

The top 10 reasons will shock you!

Half of [redacted] married women cheat during the first two years of marriage — often before their husbands do!

That's the shocking finding of infidelity expert Carol Botwin, author of the hot-selling [redacted] Think Tempted Women. [redacted] offers these 10 reasons why the '90s woman plunges into an affair:

1. New Job, New Me: She's suddenly surrounded by men who charge her with attention — while hubby takes her for granted. She feels neglected and desirable again — the strongest motivations to having an affair.

2. Sex for Breakfast, Lunch and Dinner: Jobs and kids take the spark (and, let's face it, sometimes the sex) out of lovemaking, driving a frustrated wife to a man who will give her sex all the time. Plus husbands no longer have their wives' most romantic years — but most do.

6. Girls on Top: Women still sharp with their bosses for promotions often they are shocked to have fallen behind in their careers and feel this is their only chance.

7. Disappointment: She finds she'll succeed when her sex fails to live up to modern expectations of a great lover and friend. She goes in search of her dream man.

8. Hidden Anger: Wives who feel they're playing second fiddle to their husbands' jobs or pals are likely to cheat.

9. A Way Out: A wife may have an affair to say she wants to end the marriage. If her husband finds out and leaves, she may escape the guilt of walking out herself.

10. Mid-life Crisis: Her kids have gone, her real life is stale, she's [redacted]

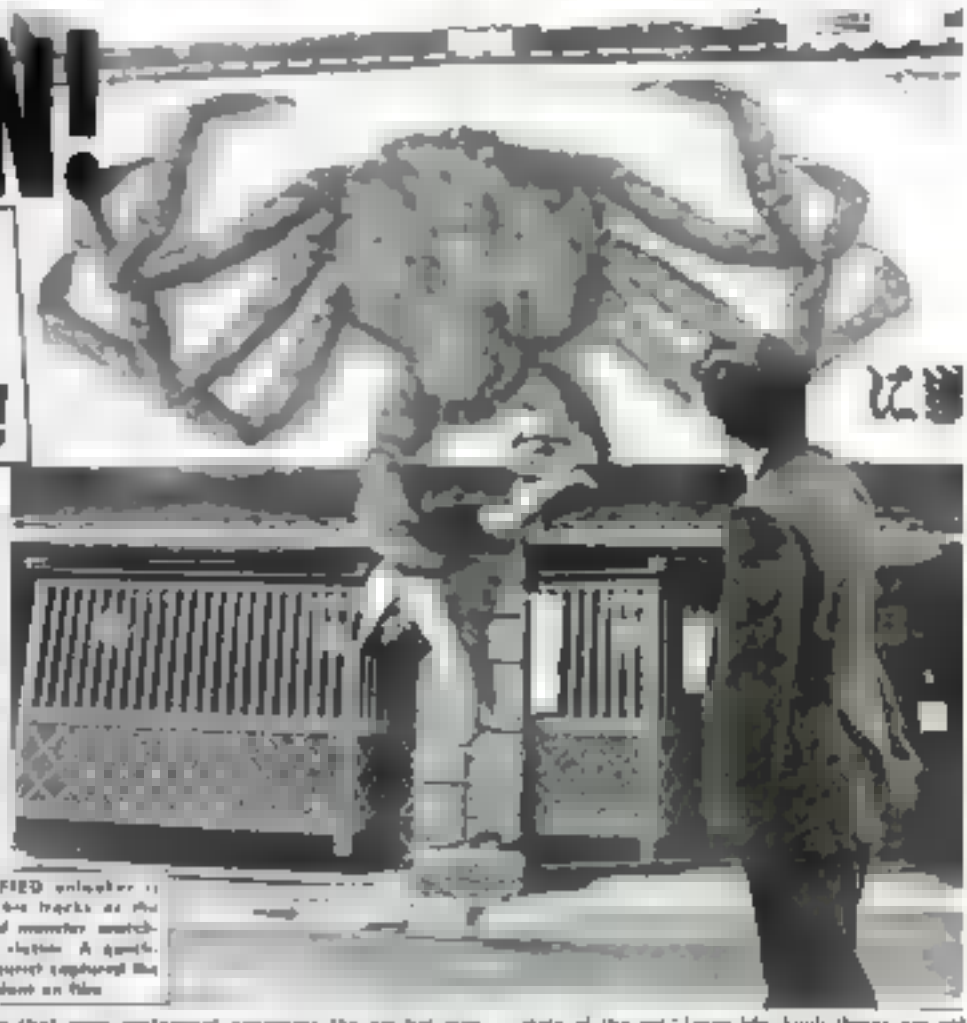
ROBOT CRAB CRUSHES WOMAN!

Restaurant sign goes berserk — & turns into killer!



A HORRIFIED onlooker is frozen in his tracks as the mechanical monster snatches up its victim. A quick-thinking tourist captured the fresh accident on film.

By TONY CASSIDY/Correspondent

As hundreds of people watched in stark terror, a gigantic robot crab on a restaurant sign in Tokyo went berserk, snatched a woman in its vise-like claws and crushed her body like an eggshell!

Though the woman struggled and fought with all her might, she was no match for the computer-controlled mechanical crab that suddenly seemed to get a life of its own.

"It was the most horrifying thing I have ever experienced. I can still hear that woman's screams of agony," said Akira Kubota, who narrowly escaped being grabbed up by the killer robot crab.

"The crab's claw came so close that it flipped my coat and knocked me to the ground. I had just enough time to crawl away on my hands and knees.

"My whole body quakes when I think that if I had been but a single step closer to that devil crab, I, like that poor woman, would be dead now."

What caused the robot to suddenly turn killer is a mystery. A computer inside the restaurant programs the sea pot sign [illegible] 15 foot long legs and two 6 foot-long front claws to move as though the crab was alive.

"This is a very advanced re- state of the art," declared a city official who asked not to be identified. "But this is not the first time a Japanese robot has been a human life. Such things are not supposed to happen — but they do.

"Perhaps that is the price we must pay when our technocrats trespass into the unknown."

The robo-crab was finally disabled when a computer programmer was called in to shut off the power.

"No one else wanted to touch the computer," explained restaurant owner Tatsuhiro Kasuga. "They were afraid they might cause the crab to come down from the sign.

"Can you imagine what a nightmare that would be? It would be just like having God-

He wanted a nicer butt — and ended up dead!

By DICK DONOVAN

Raymond Thorpe's life-long dream of becoming a woman ended tragically in a seedy motel room where he received a silicone injection to give him a more girlish rear end — and immediately dropped dead!

Thorpe, a 33-year-old transsexual-in-the-making who called himself Sophia Pastel stopped breathing moments after he was injected with silicone purchased at an automotive supply store in Atlanta, Ga.

"Death was caused by silicone pulmonary embolism when excess silicone moved from the pelvic area into the vascular system and then into the lungs," said Mark Rosenberg, an assistant Fulton County medical examiner.

Cops have charged 31-year-old Fred Kenneth Glenn with manslaughter for allegedly administering the lethal injections.

Thorpe, who lived in Virginia, had made several trips to Atlanta's underground network of back-alley silicone peddlers for injections to enlarge his breasts and feminize his facial features.

"He hadn't undergone any sex-change surgery," one injections in his breasts and around our clubhouse."

Atlanta is fast gaining a reputation as a haven for transsexuals unable to afford the few physicians willing to treat them with medical grade silicone or antigens, National Gender Information Service and said people think the $300 injections are a quick and easy way to feminize themselves.

Store owner arrested for defending himself against teenage thug!

By JACK ALEXANDER | Staff writer

Robert Ingram

"That punk had it coming," say friends and neighbors of soft-spoken store owner Robert Earl — arrested for shooting down a teenage thug who taunted him and tried to wreck his business.

But the hardworking Earl could go to prison for 21 years if convicted of aggravated assault in the wounding of 16-year-old gang member Robert "Ra-Ra" Ingram.

'Enough was enough,' says fed-up family man

"Mr. Earl did what he had to do," said Anthony Thomas, a clerk at Earl's liquor store in Trenton, N.J. "That kid just pushed him and pushed him. Mr. Earl, he just had enough."

Married and the father of three, the 44-year-old Earl had worked at the liquor store for eight years, saving his money until he was able to buy the place last year for $85,000.

"It was my dream," Earl said — a dream come true that would help put the oldest of his three children through college.

But Ingram had made trouble for the store owner from the start. Weeks before the shooting, Earl said, the teenager had come in, trashed the store, robbed several customers and carved his nickname in the door.

And on the day of the shooting, Ingram was inside the store throwing bricks and bottles at Earl.

The fed-up proprietor allegedly grabbed a .357 Magnum and shot the teenager in the side as he ran from the store.

"I didn't want to kill that boy. I wanted to hit him in the legs or something," Earl said later. "This place is something I worked too hard for. Enough was enough. He should have been home in bed or getting ready for school.

"If I hadn't done it, things would have gotten worse. It would have been an open field day around here."

Ingram "has a rap sheet as long as your arm," one cop said. "He thinks he's a tough guy."

Earl is out of jail on bail awaiting action by a grand jury. Ingram is out of the hospital and back on the street.

Ouch! Boy's tongue frozen to fire plug after pals dare him to lick it

A 6-year-old boy whose friends dared him to lick an iron fire hydrant in bone-chilling 6-degree weather learned his lesson the hard way — when his tongue froze solid to the hydrant!

And his tongue stayed stuck to the fire plug until paramedics arrived and used a special saltwater solution to free him.

"He couldn't really talk when we got there," a paramedic from Ohio said. "He was trying to tell us what happened, but we couldn't understand him."

The boy, whose name wasn't released, had seen the movie A Christmas Story in which a youngster is dared to stick his tongue to a frozen flagpole, Pete said.

But when playmates dared him to lick the hydrant near his home in Akron, Ohio, he accepted — then found himself stuck fast.

Bystanders tried to free him by pour-

Hitler's mistress has lived in California

EVA BRAUN FOUND

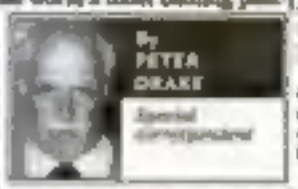
Eva Braun, Adolf Hitler's longtime mistress and wife, is still alive and well, living in the United States.

For the past 43 years, she's lived quietly as an all-American mom and grandmother in California.

An intensive investigation has tracked her down, leading to an astonishing interview that puts to rest the world's most baffling post-war mystery.

And her revelations completely rewrite the history concerning the death and whereabouts of Hitler, as well as his cronies, after their supposed 1945 suicides in Berlin. Eva, now 80, tells how:

- Hitler escaped war-torn Berlin after faking his death. He died quite recently, she revealed, confirming blockbuster reports that he suffered a fatal heart attack at the age of 103 in Argentina on April 14, 1992.
- Hitler's deputy Martin Bormann was Eva's secret lover. Like Hitler and Eva, he faked his suicide and fled to Paraguay.
- Eva dumped Bormann after five years. She entered the U.S. on fake papers in 1956 and headed for Hollywood to try and break into movies.
- After her movie career fizzled, Eva married a businessman and settled down to have five children — who have since given her 11 grandchildren.



By PETER DRAKE
Special correspondent

"In fact I'm going to become a great grandmother for the first time any day now," beamed the portly but still spry Eva, who lives in a mobile home near the California-Nevada border and goes by her married name, Eva Anderson.

"I knew I was going to be tracked down eventually, particularly after it was reported that Adolf died last year.

"I was saddened to read about his death. But you know, I didn't set eyes on him again after we parted a few days after our wedding in the Berlin bunker.

"I never really loved Adolf," she recalled. "I was a naive 17-year-old when we first met. He was 23 years older than me, but I was intoxicated by him, his magnetism, and his power. And my loyalty was also motivated by fear of him and his murderous rages.

"Not once did we sleep or have sex together.

"Adolf didn't like it known, but he just wasn't equipped for that kind of thing.

"I've always suspected he was a closet gay, but he didn't dare come out of the closet because he was always talking about how much he hated homosexuals.

"But we did marry, purely to preserve his masculine image, the day before we faked our suicides in Berlin. But my real love was his handsome deputy, Martin Bormann.

"Adolf never intended to take his own life. He and Martin had a secret escape plan worked out long before the Allies invaded the city.

"Our bodies were substituted by two corpses that had been burned beyond recognition."

Hitler left young bride Eva in care of his trusted aide Bormann after they split up. Instead of keeping a prearranged rendezvous with the Führer, however, the lovers eloped to South America.

But life in Helvecia, a small Paraguayan town colonized by Germans, 200 miles south of Asuncion, suffocated amateur soprano-singer Eva, a chirpy blonde with Tinseltown stars in her eyes.

"When Martin became an overbearing and abusive ex-Adolf, I decided to leave," recalls Eva.

"Like Adolf, Bormann wasn't much of a lover. And quite frankly, I thought I had a great chance of breaking into the movies."

With yet another false identity, she entered California without incident, via Mexico, in the summer of 1946.

And she got off to a good start in Hollywood, landing parts as an extra in such movies as A Place in the Sun starring Elizabeth Taylor and Montgomery Clift, High Noon with Gary Cooper and Grace Kelly, and The Wild One with Marlon Brando.

"But I really didn't have all that much of a chance of breaking into movies big time," admitted Eva.

"My English wasn't terribly good, and my German accent was awful."

While working on The Wild One,

since 1950!

ALIVE!

HITLER and Eva Braun were wed the day before they foiled their suicides and escaped to Paraguay.

'I was married to Adolf but we never had sex together'

She met and married fellow extra, Andy Anderson.

When movie work started to dry up, the couple left Los Angeles for the small community where she lives today.

Her husband, who operated a modest trucking business, died three years ago.

"My husband never knew my real identity," said Eva. "To him I was just another displaced person from post-war Germany."

EVA married Andy Anderson, above, in 1953. He died three years ago and never knew his wife's real identity.
